Walker plan could aid SIU

By Laura Coleman
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

SIU-C will receive $3.5 million above the Illinois Board of Higher Education (IBHE) request for capital improvements if Gov. Dan Walker's statewide campaign for a $4 billion accelerated building program is successful.

Walker was in Carbondale Monday talking to business, labor and construction leaders about the program's affect on Southern Illinois and why he thinks the legislature should approve it.

The Carbondale appearance was the first for Walker in Southern Illinois since he announced the program to the legislature Jan. 22.

Part of the program would provide $3,575,000 for improvements for SIU including:

—the modernization of the physics and geology laboratories in Parkinson Building, including air-conditioning, replacement of heating, piping and wiring, and the installation of an elevator. Twenty-four laboratories, six classrooms and four laboratory service rooms would be remodeled.

—air conditioning, new ceilings, flooring, lighting and piping for Davies Gymnasium.

—an electron microscope laboratory in Neckers Building.

The program also would finance all of the $4.5 million requested for the construction of the School of Technical Careers (STC).

Vice President for Development and Services T. Richard Mager said Walker's program will allow SIU one to one-and-a-half year in building STC because the University will not have to award sub-contracts for the project. Instead individual contractors will subdivide the project.

"The STC planning funds have been approved," Mager said. "It will permit us to go right ahead with it."

Predicting unemployment rate in Illinois to go over seven per cent with 15 per cent of that in the construction trades, Walker told a group of construction officials that his program would "have an impact on every single business" in the community.

Walker said most of the construction projects are already planned and added that his program would "move them up the pipeline."

Walker's plan would be financed by general obligation and revenue bonds which would be paid back over several years. The bonds would cover $2 million of the project.

Walker defended his proposal for the bond, saying he's been assured of a "good market" for them. He said that because the country is in a recession instead of "rampant inflation" evident a year ago, the proposal is feasible.

"I would have been a damn fool to propose it then," Walker said. "Last year we didn't have a recession."

Eckert named head for advisory group

By Mary Whittler
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Gov. Dan Walker appointed Mayor Neal Eckert as chairman to the newly established Governor's Advisory Council for Economic Development in Southern Illinois, Monday.

Gov. Walker said he is establishing the Southern Illinois council because "the people of this region have not fully shared in the state's economic growth and now are among the hardest hit by recession."

Walker said, "I am pleased Neal Eckert has agreed to serve as chairman of the council. Neal knows Southern Illinois as well as anyone. I asked him to take this job because I know he will provide the vigorous leadership necessary to make the council work for the betterment of all the people of the region."

Eckert said the establishment of the commission is important to Southern Illinois because, "it provides for the first time, a direct access to the Governor."

Gov. Walker said the purposes of the council are to:

- generate increased employment opportunity and family incomes;
- improve the quality and accessibility of public facilities and services;

- stem migration from the region;
- protect and develop Southern Illinois natural resources;
- promote tourism, and
- encourage private investment in industrial, agricultural, recreational and commercial enterprises.

Specific tasks of the commission include keeping fully aware of economic conditions in Southern Illinois, assessing proposed economic development projects in the region, recommending innovative economic programs to promote the region's well-being, coordinating governmental agencies and educational institutions involved in economic development and providing a focal point for public communication and coordination of public and private economic development activities in Southern Illinois.

Group studying graduate housing proposal

By Ray Urchel
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

A Student Life Office Committee is studying a proposal to develop a residential housing complex for graduate students.

The committee was organized fall term by Loretta Ott, acting dean of the Student Life Office, to study the Graduate Residential Unit (GRU) proposal, submitted by a medical student.

The GRU panel, chaired by Assistant Dean for Student Life Will Travelstead, has held two meetings this semester. Other committee members include: Cheryl Coe, Thompson Point Executive Council President; Julia Muller, Student Life west campus coordinator; Riefe Tietjen, Thompson Point unit manager; Joe Gasser, assistant to Housing Director Samuel L. Rinella; Eric Margolis, a law student; Barbara Colvin, School of Medicine representative; Melinda Issom, graduate student living in Warren Hall and Scott Karl, author of the proposal and Student Resident Advisor at Warren Hall.

Warren Hall at Thompson Point is predominantly a graduate hall with single rooms for medical and law students.

At last Wednesday's meeting, Margolis and Karl presented eight "needs" of grad students, including single rooms with year-round housing, a system of independent governance, including allocation of Campus Housing Activity Fee (CHAF) monies separate from the Thompson Point Executive Council, which is currently responsible for dispersing funds.

Year-round housing is a necessity, Margolis said, explaining that the SIU medical students live here all year, including breaks.

The med and law school calendars are not the same as the "official" University calendar. Students remaining during break periods must pay extra and cannot obtain food service, which is contracted in accordance with the official calendar.

Gasser told the panel that SIU President Warren W. Brandt feels more of the University's population should live on-campus.

Gasser said he "shudders" when other students request spaces at Thompson Point and must be refused while med and law students are "sopping up" the single rooms in Warren.

Gasser said that because of high demand med and law students will be the only persons on Thompson Point to have single rooms next fall.

Travelstead suggested that the committee explore possibilities other than Thompson Point.

Karl said the med and law students want their own CHAF account, separate from the Thompson Point Executive Council. He said a survey taken fall term indicates that graduate residents living at Thompson Point do not participate in Thompson Point activities.

Gus says Walker evidently likes apple pie.

Libertarians out to de-regulate society

By Laura Coleman
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The United States government takes half the money the people earn and spends it kicking the populace around, according to John Hiland, Chairman of the Jackson County Libertarian Party, which boasts a Carbondale contingent of eight.

The Libertarians have strong ideas on how things should be run in the United States. George Kocan, librarian for the Jackson County Libertarians, said Friday individual freedom is the underlying principle of the group's campaigns.

"We agree on the notion of self-ownership," Kocan said. "We feel it is unlawful to coerce anyone to do something against his will."

Kocan said the nationwide organization, which started in 1969, has a membership of about 5,000. In 1972, John Hospers was its candidate for President. Kocan added he received one electoral vote.

"There are two basic ways of attaining ends," Kocan said. "One is by force. The government can't do anything without force.

"The other is by peaceful cooperation to attain an end, by working hard and by compromise," he said. "We favor the latter, and we won't flinch from that idealism."

Kocan outlined the Libertarian philosophy in various areas:

—Education: He said Libertarians oppose forced schooling. "A lot of people are coming out of school not able to read or think. They have nothing but hostility to education for the rest of their lives," Kocan said.

—Foreign Policy: "A voluntary military is the best defense against aggression," he said. He advocated the elimination of all tariffs, wars and treaties.

—Inflation: The Libertarian platform favors "an immediate and permanent end of deficit spending, repeal of laws prohibiting American citizens from owning gold, and the elimination of the Federal Reserve System, which creates paper money without backing or limit."

—Consumer protection: Kocan said it should be brought about through voluntary organization rather than government restriction, adding "there's no consumer protection in politics."

City Council to receive bids on new fire station

By Bruce Hackel
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Bids for the construction of a new fire station at the southwest corner of Wall and College will be accepted by the city council after March 1, City Manager Carroll Fry said Monday.

About $109,000 was set aside under the capital improvement fund by the city council in December, 1974, for the construction of a two-bay drive-through structure, Fry said.

Fry gave two reasons for building the new fire station. First, the fire-insurance rating bureau said Carbondale needed a fire station located further south in the city. Second, the fire in city hall last November forced the fire trucks to relocate temporarily to the Public Works Building, 300 E. Main.

"The burning of city hall also gave some impetus to the need of a new fire station in the eyes of the city council," Fry said.

Fry said the council chose to build a new fire station instead of purchasing a snorkel-truck to fight fires in tall buildings because, "The city already has a ladder truck, and it can handle fires in high-rise structures located within the city."

The city council is also ready to consider appropriating $50,000 to $60,000 for the purchase of a new pumper-truck, to be kept at the fire station once it is built.

Santa to deliver carols with Valentine overtures

"Ho, Ho, Ho, Merry Valentine's Day." That's what you may hear resounding from the lounge of the Communications building Friday when the College of Communications and Fine Arts puts some heart into an out-of-season Christmas party for faculty and staff.

"In December, the anticipation of drab mid-winter led us to believe that festivities would be more welcome, indeed, more beneficial, in mid-February," reads the announcement.

"It's kind of wild," admits the dean of communications, C.B. Hunt Jr. "We simply wanted to get the faculty together socially and we're calling it a Christmas party because we were too busy at Christmas to arrange a party."

"February is such a dull month we thought we'd get together for a combination Valentine's and Christmas celebration," Hunt said heartily.

Hunt said Christmas music would be played, "since we couldn't find any Valentine's music," and a Christmas tree would be festooned with Valentine ornaments. He said no invitations had been extended to Saints Nicholas and Valentine but "we'd welcome them if they showed up."

Christmas and Valentine cookies will be served along with coffee and punch. Festivities will run from 3:00 to 4:30 p.m.

Valentine eggnog anyone?

Local murder evidence arrives at crime labs

By Mark Kazlowski
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Evidence in the slayings of two Carbondale women over two weeks ago has been received by the crime labs, Carbondale Police Chief George Kennedy said Monday.

The evidence in the Cary Lee Reischauer case was sent to Springfield for analysis while the evidence in the Theresa M. Clark case was sent to the FBI Crime Laboratory in Washington, D.C.

Kennedy would not say what evidence was sent to either lab. No results have been reported yet.

The analyses of the evidence should be completed in two or three weeks, Kennedy said.

Mrs. Reischauer was found by her sister, Grace Corzine, Jan. 26 in Mrs. Reischauer's home at 617 N. Allyn. Jackson County Coroner Don Ragsdale said Mrs. Reischauer's cause of death was asphyxiation.

She was tied and gagged by an intruder who ransacked the house. Kennedy would not say if anything had been reported missing.

Ms. Clark died from multiple stab wounds in the front and back, Ragsdale said. Her slaying is believed to have occurred Saturday, Jan. 25, in the late afternoon or evening.

Ms. Clark's roommate, Mary Kelly, found Ms. Clark's body in the bathtub of their Ambassador apartment on East Danny Street Jan. 27. Kelly had been out of town for the weekend. She found the body Monday morning.

Kennedy said the investigations are continuing and there is no new information to report.

News Roundup

Kissinger hints of new U.S. Mid-East policy

JERUSALEM (AP)—Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, arriving in Israel to launch his latest round of Middle East diplomacy, said Monday the United States is ready to take other approaches to a settlement than his step-by-step plan.

"We are prepared to explore other means and other forums if necessary," he said in an obvious reference to the Geneva conference, which the Kremlin and some Arab states want resumed.

"We agree that the step-by-step approach is likely to be the most productive," Kissinger said on arrival in a chill rain at Jerusalem airport.

He thanked the government of Premier Yitzhak Rabin for endorsing his approach, but added that the United States "is essentially committed to rapid progress" and does not subscribe to any special way of achieving it.

Kissinger's one-week mission to the Middle East is designed to find out if he can arrange another settlement between Israel and Egypt in the Sinai Desert.

The argument in Sinai centers on possession of the strategic Mitla and Gidi passes and the Israeli-occupied Abu Rudeis oilfields.

"We have no formal proposal from either side," Kissinger told newsmen on the flight to Jerusalem. "But I have ideas from Egypt and I have ideas from Israel. I'm here to discuss such ideas."

Thieu warns of more bloodshed in new year

SAIGON (AP)—President Nguyen Van Thieu told South Vietnamese beginning the Tet lunar new year Monday that more bloodshed and hard times are ahead. The political opposition repeated calls for his resignation.

In an address to mark Vietnam's Year of the Cat, Thieu again ruled out a coalition government with the Viet Cong and pledged to fight until Communist forces are defeated.

More than 20 opposition deputies and senators staging a hunger strike in front of the National Assembly building lighted torches and burned photos of the president.

A letter from the opposition accused

Thieu of taking advantage of Tet by going on national radio "to renew his lies and his promises for political stability, building up democracy, and maintaining territorial integrity."

In his address, Thieu said: "Two years have elapsed since the signing of the Paris cease-fire agreement. The North Vietnamese Communists have rebuilt in South Vietnam a stronger invasion force."

"They are crazily pushing ahead a general offensive on our territory. We must understand that the Communist will never strictly implement the Paris agreement unless their armed invasion at present is defeated."

Condition worsens for one of Shaf quintuplets

CHICAGO (AP)—The lung condition of one of the Shaf quintuplets worsened Monday but doctors said they were hopeful about the boy's recovery.

Ryan Theodore Shaf, the third of five babies born Sunday to Cheryl Shaf, was listed as serious and was aided in breathing by a respirator. A specialist in the care of newborn, Dr. Mehrunnisa Zarif, was monitoring the infant's condition, known as hyaline membrane disease. It is marked by breathing difficulty due to tiny lungs, doctors said. The other two boys and two girls, in incubators, were doing fine, hospital officials reported.

The quintts were the second born in the Chicago area in two years. Both mothers used fertility drugs.

The new parents completed naming the children Monday. In addition to Ryan Theodore, the boys were named Derek, Anthony and Adam Adrian. The girls are Vanessa Ashley and Tiffany Alison.

Convict among Jaycee's 'outstanding men'

WARREN, Mich. (AP)—In a controversial move, Michigan Jaycees have selected a convicted murderer as one of the state's five outstanding young men for 1974.

Lloyd E. Tisi, 31, was taken under guard from his prison cell to the Jaycees annual dinner Saturday to receive the award for his work with the blind.

Tisi has been an inmate at the Southern Michigan prison in Jackson since he was convicted in October 1967 of the second-degree murder of Judy Ann Phaes, 20. Tisi was arrested less than eight hours after the woman's body was found April 20, 1967, in her Warren home. She had been stabbed to death.

Prosecution witnesses said they saw Tisi enter the Phares home the day of the slaying. Tisi testified that he had been drinking and could remember little that day. Tisi's wife and the victim had been close friends since their student days at Center Line High School.

Islam leader still in critical condition

CHICAGO (AP)—Elijah Muhammad, leader of the Nation of Islam, remained in critical condition Monday.

The 77-year-old head of the separatist group popularly known as the Black Muslims, suffered congenital heart failure over the weekend. He was admitted to the hospital earlier for what spokesman decried as a routine checkup due to his age.

The spokesman said Muhammad's room was being guarded by several personal bodyguards as it was on a previous stay five months earlier. On both occasions, Muhammad entered under an assumed name, the spokesman said.

Ford seeks approval of energy plans

HOUSTON (AP)—President Ford flew here Monday in search of support for his energy proposals after reviewing with his advisers "four or five different possibilities" for emergency action if the economy worsens.

Ford's jetliner landed at Ellington Air Force Base near Houston at 2:46 p.m. EST and he headed by motorcade for a downtown hotel where he was to address a conference sponsored by the Houston Chamber of Commerce. Before leaving the White House, Ford conferred for 90 minutes with his economic advisers on steps to take if the nation's recession deepens, presidential news secretary Ron Nessen said.

Nessen said there were "four or five different possibilities" for presidential action, but he refused to give examples or to discuss the range of options.

Chairman Alan Greenspan of the Council of Economic Advisers, who conferred with Ford during the three-hour flight to Houston, also refused to comment on possible presidential actions.

Greenspan said the executive action would not be triggered by any single economic indicator, such as unemployment, but rather by the "whole plethora of statistics."

In a speech prepared for delivery here, Ford rejected suggestions that he ease off his proposal to cut the nation's oil imports by a million barrels a day. He said congressional opponents of his plan were proposing "a very high risk and reckless gamble."

In the first of a two-day series of speeches and conferences, Ford told the Houston Chamber of Commerce Monday that immediate action must be taken to insulate the economy against the damage which would result from a new oil embargo.

Ford said those who suggest "that we continue to import the entire million or a significant part of the million barrels that I proposed to cut back" are proposing to "play games with our total economy in the hope of boasting about limited winnings that are not at all certain."

His address to the Chamber of Commerce's energy-economic conference preceded a working dinner with Southwestern governors Monday night.

On Tuesday, Ford attends a working breakfast with regional media representatives in Houston before flying to Topeka, Kan., and an address to the Kansas Legislature, a meeting with midwestern governors and a news conference Tuesday night.

The journey is part of Ford's stepped-up effort to gain public support for his economic and energy proposals, which face strong opposition in Congress.

The President's prepared remarks for the Houston conference centered on a spirited defense of his energy plan.

Many oilmen were in the audience

"when he said 'you may not support all of what I have proposed, but...I have seen no better program proposed.'"

He again declared his opposition to rationing.

"Allocations and rationing cannot be fair and equitable to consumers," he said. "They cannot stimulate energy independence. They cannot produce one barrel of oil—not one gallon of gasoline."

Ford said his program offers an equitable solution making maximum use of the market place. "The promised land of allocations and rationing would turn out to be a jungle—a jungle of red tape, bureaucratic judgment, inequities and other problems," he said.

The President talked, too, about "the sorry history of natural gas policy in the United States" and urged Congress to act now to deregulate natural gas prices to spur production before the nation is faced "with the hard choice of supplying homes or industries."

Study habits determine success, report says

By Jim Murphy
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Academic success in college depends as much on how students study as what they study, a Association of American Publishers' report (AAP) says.

The AAP student services report, "How to Prepare Successfully for Examinations," offers a six-step semester study plan which emphasizes good study habits.

The first AAP recommendation is the formation of a term study plan. Included in the plan should be a daily schedule. A quiet place, conducive to study, should be a part of the plan, according to the AAP. Also, the student should not overtax his stamina by not studying longer than 90 minutes at one time.

Secondly, the report says students should develop good review habits prior to exams. The report advises against "racing your motor." The examination review should be carefully scheduled not to last more than 90 minutes at one time.

The review should be systematic and consistent. A student shouldn't plan on learning something for the first time when reviewing.

Group reviewing should take the place of cramming, according to the AAP report. Students should stay alert to instructors' emphases on certain topics and try to predict examination questions.

A third guideline concerns developing a confident attitude. Checking progress is one benefit of exams. They enable the student to determine how well he is doing by helping to solidify his knowledge of important ideas.

The fourth recommendation urges the use of good common sense in the organization of pre-exam hours. This includes getting an adequate amount of sleep before the day of the test. The student should get up early, have a good breakfast and avoid rushing to the test.

During the exam, the student should organize his thoughts. Budgeting time and jotting down key words are recommended rules during the course of the examination.

The AAP report advises students to remember that an instructor never expects one question to be a demonstration of everything a student knows. Important cue words included in exam questions, such as analyze, compare, illustrate, relate and summarize, usually serve as the key to what the instructor is looking for.

Plan would aid SIU, Walker says

The program includes 17 separate road projects for Southern Illinois, including the resurfacing of Ill. 51 from Carbondale to DuQuoin at a cost of $2.1 million.

Also included for Southern Illinois will be —$15 million of sewer construction grants for which 21 towns will be eligible.

—improvements at ten Southern Illinois airports, —a marina on and $2 million worth of embankment work on Lake Kincaid.

—remodeling at correctional institutions and state hospitals.

—a bikeway from Fort Chartres State Park to Cave-In Rock State Park, and —building ten new schools in Southern Illinois or "major rehabilitation" at existing schools to bring them up to safety and health standards.

The examination guide further recommends that questions and answers be reread. The answers should be as clear and concise as possible.

The final recommendation in the AAP report urges that students reassess their work after the exam is handed back. Mistakes should be checked. The re-evaluation should help the student recognize faults in study skills.

The article, "How to Prepare Successfully for Exams," is part of a series initiated by the Association of American Publishers. Copies of the article can be obtained free by writing to AAP Student Services, One Park Avenue, New York, N.Y., 10016.

Citing what he called an "urgent need" for construction to get underway, Walker said he's hoping the legislature will consider the program by mid-March. "We can pump cash into the failing economy," Walker said, adding, "I know the state can afford it."

All 58th District legislators were present at Walker's afternoon meeting, and all said they would need more time to study the program before deciding how they will vote.

Wasted food

The City of Carbondale and other communities like it are sitting atop virtual mountains of high-nutrient biscuits and candied carbohydrate supplements—the kind of food that will keep a human from starvation, but do little for culinary arts. Carbondale alone has over 10 tons of the food—enough to feed 38,500 people for a period of two weeks.

But according to nutrition experts for the Cooperative for American Relief Everywhere (CARE), the food will not be fit for human consumption for two-to-four years.

The food reserves were originally placed in fallout shelters by the U.S. Defense Civil Preparedness Agency and put under the management of local civil defense departments. In the late 1960s, however, after the food had outlived both its predicted life expectancy of five years and its nuclear-war-mania age by about the same, the U.S. government decided to drop the load on the backs of the local governments.

Since that time the food reserves have been sitting—stacked, tinned, cartoned and ready to eat—in the basements of Carbondale churches, schools and warehouses. Now, we find, they are rotting.

We cannot, as Sen. George S. McGovern, (D-S.D.), accuses, let this stockpile of food become "the most expensive garbage in history," while the world faces a devastating food crisis.

While the federal government has apparently shed itself of all responsibility in the matter, the community can allow itself one of the rare feelings of accomplishment and satisfaction by making sure the food does not go to a pitiful waste. Strangely enough, though, the fight to save rotting food has its opponents; but not so strange is the form the opposition takes: apathy and inactivity.

Robert Alexander, the director of Carbondale's Civil Defense department, opposes the distribution of the food on two points. The first, he says, is that the reserves may be needed in case of natural disaster or nuclear attack.

Yet weighed against the possibility of a natural disaster that would deprive Carbondale of any and all access to outside relief and supplies, or the probability of a nuclear attack within the next two years, Mr. Alexander's argument seems hardly rational or logical.

Secondly, Alexander has said that there is "no money in the budget for such an expensive venture."

However, as noted before, the food reserves are already boxed, cartoned and crated ready for shipment. Furthermore, the U.S. government, through the Agency for International Development, will pay all ocean freight fees. Therefore, a local community is faced only with the problem of transporting the food to an ocean port. Recently the town of Hannibal, Mo. was able to do just that. After voting to send its entire stock of 10 tons to Columbia, South America, concerned citizens and government officials were able to enlist the volunteer services of a local trucking firm to take the food to New Orleans.

Carbondale should follow the example of Hannibal, because the only alternative would result in the pathetic waste of tons of desperately needed food. That would be a disgrace to humanity.

C'mon Illinois, wake up and pass the ERA

By Diane Solberg

Before this country can truthfully claim its citizens have the right to "the pursuit of happiness," the Equal Rights Amendment (ERA) must be amended into the Constitution.

"School children are told in their studies that when 'he' is used it does not mean the male gender, but mankind. So then, why was the Civil Rights Act passed in 1964? Why was an amendment added to the Constitution in 1920 giving women the right to vote? And why is ERA being considered in state legislatures throughout the country? Because, in reality, 'he' has meant Anglo-Saxon, Protestant male.

Our well-meaning forefathers, in order to protect the fragile women, passed laws that did not allow women to own land or serve on jury trials—there are still laws on the books oppressing her.

If ERA were amended to the Constitution it would put an end to state laws prohibiting certain behavior for women that is not prohibited to men. For instance, in most states men can readily be sterilized but women must get written consent from their husbands.

Some state laws prohibit women from working overtime, limiting her economic and advancement opportunities.

The worst offenders in discriminatory practices are insurance companies and credit card operations. ERA would force these organizations to use similar criteria for men and women.

The status of the homemaker will be improved. According to Common Cause, the citizen's lobby group, ERA will require laws to recognize the contribution of the homemaker. ERA would entitle the homemaker to financial compensation for her service. ERA will actually heighten the dignity of the homemaker because support laws will be gauged on actual earning power and contributions of each spouse, instead of simply being based on sex.

Unfortunately, states have been slow to ratify the amendment because of right-wing extremist organizations perpetuating false propoganda about ERA.

The John Birch Society, the U.S. Communist Party, the Ku Klux Klan and the National States' Rights Party spend thousands of dollars annually promoting juvenile ideas accusing ERA of outlawing separate public restrooms and prison cells.

Illinois already has an ERA in its state constitution and none of these things have occurred. As for those critics claiming ERA forces women to do certain things against their will, women are not forced into the labor market or into any other activity they don't desire. As it is now, women are not given the same choices men have in some situations. ERA will give the same rights to women that men already have.

In the past, Illinois and other state legislatures have voted to pass ERA, but legal technicalities have voided ratifications.

Hopefully, Illinois has ironed out the problems and the General Assembly will approve the ERA to make state laws uniform and give women the right to realize their full potentials. All people, men and women, deserve equal rights. A national ERA will legally insure that.

Vienna: Portrait of a progressive prison

Editor's note: Diane Solberg and Ross Becker spent a week recently at Vienna Correctional Center interviewing prisoners and staff. Becker filed this two-part report on the prison's programs. Beginning Thursday, Solberg's stories from the prisoners' perspectives will be published.

By Ross Becker
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

"There was talk about putting a driving range in. Can you imagine how fast the public would have turned it into an 18-hole golf course?"

—VCC resident

About 50 miles southeast of Carbondale is a prison without walls or fences.

Depending on who is speaking, Vienna Correctional Center (VCC) is either one of the most modern, progressive correctional institutions in the nation or a country club for convicts—posing a threat to societal safety.

A 3,500-acre tract bordering the Shawnee National Forest was chosen in 1958 for the site of the new prison. Seven years passed before the first building—a three-story, sandstone-brick structure—opened for residency. By 1971, 16 buildings were needed to house the proliferating prisoner population and expanding vocational and educational facilities.

These newer buildings, two-story brick bungalows surrounded by fields of winter-brown grass, look like any that can be found on a typical community college campus.

Each of the buildings' residents has his own small dormitory room with a lock and key. Lively posters and pictures of mothers or girlfriends or boyfriends decorate the rooms' cinder-block walls with each prisoner's feel for home.

After visiting VCC and conversing with many residents and most of the staff, a picture emerges of an environment geared to benefit the residents immediately and society in the long run. About 400 men and 35 women are given the opportunity to rehabilitate themselves before being returned to the free world. Both residents and staff interviewed claimed at Vienna convicts can learn to respect themselves and society's laws through the prison's many educational and occupational skills programs.

Developing effective rehabilitation programs and satisfying the public's demands for justice are constant concerns of Warden Vernon C. Housewright and the Illinois Department of Corrections (IDOC).

Dennis Newlin, 18, of Carbondale, relaxes in his VCC room decorated to his own personal tastes.

"Any number of ways exist by which effectiveness can be determined," Housewright said. Investments in security measures such as walls, guard towers and fences indicate one kind of effectiveness, he said.

"But effectiveness is also measured by the programs that are provided for the inmates," Housewright, a soft-spoken but articulate man in his mid-forties, said.

"Can you keep people or are they going to run off in this kind of environment?" is an important question, the warden said. Pointing out that only 23 out of a total of 2700 inmates have been involved in escape attempts since VCC first opened its doors in 1965, Housewright enthusiastically said, "that is probably a national precedent."

"The men have a saying here that they would rather go home by Greyhound than bloodhound," the 5'-11" stocky Housewright kidded.

Vienna's major responsibility is not to keep the offender separated from the rest of society but to gradually integrate him back into society.

Residents do not automatically come from a maximum security prison to Vienna when they are near parole. To be sent to VCC, a convict must make a formal request at his prison. This request leads to an evaluation by psychologists, security personnel and educators from the resident's prison.

Once a prisoner is accepted he is transferred to Vienna.

About ten years ago Housewright worked with an architect to design a facility that has become a pioneer in prison architecture, he said.

Housewright and his staff worked with the architects to develop a prison community that would complement the programs that VCC would offer, he said. "Where it is known that drugs exist, action is taken," Housewright said.

If a resident is abusing drugs peer group pressure usually solves the problem, one resident said.

After the security officer explains the regulations, Vienna's educational and vocational opportunities are outlined.

Residents learn that they may complete high school or, if necessary, remedial elementary courses at VCC.

Upon completion of high school training, residents receive a General Education Development (GED) certificate—equivalent to a high school diploma.

Once a resident has completed high school, he may enroll in the community college program. "It offers the same courses with the same expectations as Shawnee College," according to Jack Sistler, community college program director.

When inmates finish their course work they receive the same Associate of Arts or Sciences degree as persons on the main campus of Shawnee. Sistler, a tall six footer with thinning hair, said. The diploma does not show that the course work has been completed at Vienna, he added.

Fifty-eight associate degrees have been awarded to VCC residents since the program started in the winter of 1971.

Punishment is not standardized except for the most serious offenses, McEvers said. For minor offenses a resident may be confined to his room, except during meals or class and work time. If a violation is serious, the resident may be kept in a bared isolation cell or sent back to a maximum security prison.

Some VCC residents feel the counseling service is a "paper pushing organization." They said the counselors' help in arranging furloughs and work release is inadequate. They also feel that some counselors "forgot" to follow through resident's requests to change vocational units.

Some of the residents complaints are justified, McEvers openly admitted. He counseling service is four years old and within the last year, he said it has begun to upgrade its program to serve the residents better.

said. The facility was built to resemble the small town atmosphere from which many of the VCC residents come from, he said, speaking enthusiastically.

In the center of VCC is a landscaped "town square" with businesses including a barbershop and educational facilities where residents can learn vocations.

On the outskirts of the business district is a group of modern two-story buildings for male residents and administration. Behind the six men's dormitories looms a magnificent sweeping view of Shawnee National Forest. The oldest two buildings, standing alone, house women residents, the auditorium and prison hospital.

After arriving at VCC the new resident begins orientation. Security officers first explain the count procedure. For "count" the resident must report to his living unit and check in with the unit security officer at designated times.

Few rules exist for the residents. Drugs and alcohol are not allowed inside the prison, prisoners are not allowed to have physical contact with the opposite sex and fighting is not permitted. Common sense is the main rule for residents, one guard said.

Because of the open environment, drugs and alcohol can be smuggled into the prison. According to both residents and prison officials there are drugs in Vienna as in almost every other prison system in the United States.

The attitude of the prison officials is simply that drugs are not permitted.

FAA to begin tower control on March 11

The Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) will assume operation of the air traffic control tower at Southern Illinois Airport March 11, according to Airport Manager Gene Seibert.

The airport, located between Carbondale and Murphysboro, now operates one of the few non-FAA towers in the country.

Seibert said the FAA will provide personnel for the tower. One of the four airport controllers has qualified to be hired by the FAA and will continue to work there, he said.

Two other controllers will go to work at FAA flight service stations and the fourth will work in the airport's weather station. Controllers' salaries are now paid by SIU's Air Institute.

Seibert explained that the facility qualified for an FAA tower by having more than 50,000 take-offs and landings involving cross-country flights, the standard guideline for general aviation airports.

Seibert said the FAA will lease the tower from the authority for about $3,000 a year. He said basic air traffic control procedure will not change.

SIU orchestra slates Wednesday concert

The SIU Symphony Orchestra, under the direction of Robert Bergt, will present a concert at 8 p.m., Wednesday in Shryock Auditorium. The concert will feature an SIU Symphony first-symphonic music with choreography.

The concert will begin with J.S.

Bach's "Overture No. 3." Joining the symphony in the overture will be the Southern Illinois Repertory Dance Theater, whose 20 dancers will perform accompanying choreography by Holly Catchings. Domenico Dragonetti's "Concerto" for contrabass and orchestra will be performed second. This piece will feature Salviator Maocchia on the contrabass.

To properly celebrate Abraham Lincoln's birthday, the symphony will conclude the program's first half with a performance of Aaron Copland's "Lincoln Portrait" for speaker and orchestra. John F. Hayward, chairman of Religious Studies, will narrate the piece with selected Lincoln speeches.

During the intermission, five men from the Southern Illinois Repertory Dance Theater will perform an 18th century sword dance in the balcony lounge. The dance is arranged by Mildred Dickenson.

Concluding the program, the symphony will perform Mozart's "Symphony No. 40 in g minor."

Admission to the concert is free.

Theft of bell from University fraternity reported

Is nothing sacred?

Sometime after 3 a.m. Friday, villains stole the Tau Kappa Epsilon bell which has been TEKE property for at least 15 years.

The grey bell, with a red line on the frame, is mounted on wheels and has an estimated value of $175. The bell was kept in front of the TEKE house at 306 W. Mill St. James Hipp, a TEKE member who reported the bell missing to SIU Security Police, said chapter members have no ideas who took the bell.

"It's been around 15 years that I know of, maybe more," Hipp said.

Hipp said the last time the bell was stolen was by another chapter in Whitewater, Wis. more than 15 years ago. He said the disagreement over ownership was settled and the bell has been property of the SIU TEKE's ever since.

He said the bell used to be taken to home football games and rung when the Salukis scored. He said it has not been taken recently because it did not have a good set of tires on it. Hipp said the chapter was trying to get it in condition again to take to football games.

Developmental Skills lacks tutor funds

By Les Chudik
Student Writer

The Developmental Skills Program budget is too small to adequately cover all areas in which students need individualized attention necessary in a tutorial program, according to Jessie Hailey, the coordinator of the program.

"Eight tutors—seven paid students and one unpaid volunteer faculty member—have the task of tutoring about 2,000 students enrolled in the tutorial program," Hailey said.

"Why have a tutorial service set up that isn't staffed to satisfy their (students') needs?" Hailey said.

The tutorial program, which was set up in the fall of 1968, as a pilot project for Developmental Skills students only, was opened to all students in the summer of 1972. The program tutors students mainly in General Studies areas but also in chemistry, math and physics, Hailey said.

"Before the program was opened to all students, those not in the Developmental Skills program who wanted tutoring had to pay $3 to $6 per hour. The Developmental Skills Program decided to assume the cost of paying tutors because it prohibited many students from getting the help they needed," Hailey said.

If a student requests help in an area where the program lacks a tutor, the staff will keep calling people to try to identify faculty members or graduate students who would be willing to volunteer to help the student. This isn't always successful, Hailey said.

Seminar to discuss rape

Members of the Student Affairs Task Force on Rape will lead a discussion on "Rape: The Victim and the Offender," from noon to 2 p.m. Wednesday in the Student Center Illinois Room.

The discussion is part of the "Being a Woman Seminars" to be held this semester.

Virginia Britton, coordinator of the seminars, said the discussion will center on the definition of the crime of rape, myths about the offender and the victim, rape prevention and how it can be applied in Carbondale.

The seminar is free. Everyone is invited to attend.

Evansville area gives money to dead Samaritan's 4 sons

EVANSVILLE, Ind. (AP) — Jerome A. Bailey was sleeping after working all night in a warehouse when he heard a neighbor woman scream that a car with two children inside had rolled into a lake.

Leaping from bed that wintry Friday five days before Christmas, Bailey raced across the road and dived into the icy waters.

He reached the still floating car, pulled out John Stack, 4, and swam with him to a man near shore.

As the car sank, Bailey swam back and dived in an attempt to rescue 20-month-old Patrick Stack. He and the baby drowned.

In the weeks since the tragedy, hundreds of residents of this area of Indiana and nearby Kentucky and Illinois have donated to a trust fund that will guarantee an education to Bailey's four sons.

Editor Len Kreuger of The Evansville Courier says the idea for a fund originated with a person who wrote Kreuger, enclosed a check for $100 and requested anonymity.

The Courier matched the $100 and established a trust fund at an Evansville bank.

Readers of The Courier, members of The Evansville and Kentucky Travelers Motorcycle Clubs, The American Association of Retired Persons, taverns and school children responded.

Kreuger says the fund now totals $38,000 and is still growing.

He says never in his 37 years as a newspaperman has he participated "in a newspaper effort in which the response has been so heartwarming, so overwhelming, so generous, and so gratifying."

On Jan. 25, trustees of Oakland City, Ind., College granted full tuition, four-year scholarships to Jerome Neil, 14, Jeffrey W., 13, James R., 11, and Richard E. Bailey, 5, "in recognition of your father's very brave act."

Bailey's widow, Shirley, wrote Kreuger, thanking Courier readers and saying, "we will always have his love and memories to help us through when things seem too much to take."

Kreuger said the original donor wrote that Bailey "leaves four children who will need an education to equip them to earn a living so they too can help others in the future."

Student conduct committee okays code jurisdiction change

By Ray Urdel
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The Student Conduct Code Committee Friday approved a revised jurisdiction section for the proposed code.

According to the revised draft, the conduct code will "apply to conduct occurring on property owned or controlled by the University."

The University will not "request special consideration" for students in cases occurring on non-University property, according to the revised section.

SIU will cooperate with law enforcement and other agencies in student rehabilitation programs, the approved draft states.

Although the University will not impose further sanctions, it

"reserves the right to initiate disciplinary action if the student's conduct has interfered with its educational objectives or functions," the proposal continues.

C. Thomas Busch, assistant to the vice president for Student Affairs and chairman of the code committee, said Monday that the document should be completed in the next two or three meetings. He said he is still awaiting input from SIU Legal Counsel on the proposed draft.

The code committee is scheduled to meet Thursday afternoon from 3 to 5 p.m. in the Student Affairs conference room.

Former education chief slates University talk

SIU President Warren W. Brandt and his wife will host a talk by Michael Bakalis, former Illinois Superintendent of Public Instruction, on the topic "Reflections on Politics in Education in Illinois."

Bakalis, now a visiting professor at Northwestern University will speak at 7:30 p.m. in the Student Center Auditorium.

In 1970, prior to his election to the Office of Superintendent of Public Instruction, Bakalis said the largest fault in that office was "political concerns." At that time he also stated, "Education must be taken out of politics."

He also expressed the feeling that there should be more student and faculty input into universities.

The Student Government Activities Council is co-sponsoring the event as part of a lecture series. The College of Education and the Carbondale PTA Council are also sponsors.

A coffee hour will follow the lecture. The public is invited.

Blood donations set record

The Red Cross bloodmobile had the best local turnout ever last week, said Joe Ragsdale, personnel officer, University Risk Management. He said 499 pints of blood were donated Thursday and Friday.

Although proud of the turnout, Ragsdale said he was unhappy with faculty and staff participation. He said 60 per cent of the donations came from students.

The blood drive was intended for the faculty and staff, and all blood donated was considered a contribution toward fulfilling their contract with the Red Cross.

Under the contract, if SIU faculty and staff contribute 900 pints of blood this year all members of the faculty, staff, annuitants and their families are eligible to receive free blood from the Red Cross.

All student donors and their families are also eligible for free blood.

Ragsdale said the next faculty and staff blood drive will be in July.

The next student oriented blood drive is scheduled for April 15-18.

The faculty and staff contract with the Red Cross is one of the two such contracts between a university and the Red Cross in the United States, Ragsdale said. The other university holding such a contract is Ohio State.

Fulbright-Hays grant deadline extended for more applicants

By Craig Sinclair
Student Writer

The deadline for application for the Fulbright-Hays lecturing and research awards for 1975-76 has been extended indefinitely according to Jared Dorn, assistant director for International Students and Faculty Affairs.

Dorn said the decision was based upon a shortage of applicants for present jobs and also upon the creation of jobs under a new program.

"There is no deadline now for these awards," Dorn said. "Applications will be accepted until all the positions are filled. We still need a few."

The awards, sponsored by the U.S. government, offer qualified persons instructional and research positions in foreign countries for periods up to two years. The grantee is provided transportation to and from his assignment plus $35 to $50 per day and monthly expenses.

Basic eligibility requirements for applicants include U.S. citizenship, a doctorate degree, college or university teaching experience and a proficiency in French. Dorn stressed that all but the foreign language requirements were flexible.

"It's really kind of an honor to be selected for the award," Dorn said. "Applications are submitted from all over the country."

Dorn also cited a financial advantage for most of the grantees of the award. Many recipients find themselves suddenly prosperous when they are paid American wages in an economy below that of the United States.

Henry D. Piper, an SIU professor of English, is teaching under the sponsorship of the program in India and Bangladesh.

Five senior lecturing awards have been added to the Fulbright-Hays program this year. Applicants can now receive two to four month awards in Chad, Ivory Coast, Mali, Niger, Upper Volta and Zaire.

Preference for these awards is given to applicants with backgrounds in business management, economics, American government or international relations.

Potential applicants may contact Dorn in the Office of International Education in Woody Hall.

Fans, swimmers blast Illini

By Dave Wiczorek
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

The usual Saluki swimmers swam and won the meet with Illinois Friday night in Pullman Pool, but, according to the swimmers and even coach Bob Steele, it was the fans that enabled SIU to capture an easy 77-26 victory.

"They're beautiful, that's all I can say," said grateful swimmer Rick Fox. "They (the fans) helped us win this meet."

Sophomore Dave Boyd echoed much the same feeling.

"The fans—they were just super," Boyd said, with a thankful smile.

Paul Schultz summed it up by saying, "I just want you to thank the whole crowd for us."

The crowd, in fact, was something to see. It was the biggest turnout this season, and many fans had to sit on the pool deck. Of course, coach Bob Steele did some of his own promoting to get the crowd to come out. Fans who came were greeted by a pep band and three cheerleaders.

Steele was the main cheerleader, waving his arms frantically whenever there was a tight race, and at times seemingly leading a cheer.

The enthusiasm and excitement of the crowd was overwhelming and must have sent chills up the spines of the SIU swimmers as their adrenalin reached a peak for the start of the meet.

The 400-yard medley relay was the first event on the program. SIU had little trouble winning the race, and Illinois must have known they were about to see some great swimming.

The Salukis not only qualified for the NCAA in the 400-relay, but the team of Mike Salerno, Paul Schultz, Jorge Delgado and Dennis Roberts set a pool record with a time of 3:31.4.

"We won the meet right there,"

Boyd said. "We blew them right out of the water."

Boyd, himself, had a fine day, going his lifetime best in the 200-yard freestyle and finishing second behind Delgado with a time of 1:45.1.

He picked up another second place in the closest race of the meet, one that required a judge's decision for all three places.

Boyd officially had a better time than the winner from Illinois, George Congreve, and Saluki Roberts tied Congreve in time, but it was so close that Congreve was awarded first place.

Boyd also swam the important second leg of the 400-yard freestyle relay that SIU won, edging Illinois by three-tenths of a second.

Fox called Boyd the "best swimmer of the meet."

Captain Dave Swenson had one of his better days in the water, swimming to three first places. In the 1000-yard freestyle, he easily outdistanced Illinois' Mike Grimmer and came back two events later to swim his lifetime best in the 200-yard individual medley with a time of 1:58.7. SIU's Jamie Powell took second place in the 200, swimming his season's best, 2:03.

Swenson rested for a few events, then swam the 500-yard freestyle in record time, 4:37.9, breaking the old record set earlier in the year by teammate Delgado by almost four seconds.

Powell added another lifetime best when he finished second to Salerno in the 200-yard backstroke in 2:00.6.

SIU won 10 of 11 swimming events and lost the diving competition, but that wasn't enough for Illinois to stop the Salukis. SIU also won several seconds and thirds, which were the key to such a devastating win.

Steele commented, "Even if Illinois had swam their best times, we still would have beaten them 64-49. We just swam so well. Sixteen of our 27 swimmers were personal bests. Only two of Illinois' 26 swimmers were personal bests."

After reaching such an emotional peak for the Illinois meet Friday night, the Salukis traveled up to Chicago for a meet with Northwestern and Michigan. The team suffered a letdown emotionally and physically, according to Steele, but still managed to beat Northwestern 73-40. Michigan did not officially compete with SIU.

Women cagers falter in tourney

By Martha Sanford
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

Placing fourth out of four at your own invitational doesn't sound too impressive, but, considering the competition, the Saluki women's basketball team doesn't have a lot to be unhappy about.

The weekend invitational was kicked off Friday night when the Salukis met Memphis State. The Salukis knew that meeting a team with lots of experience, a 16-6 record and a 6-foot-3½ center was going to be no picnic. But they handled themselves well, and head coach Charlotte West said she was not overly concerned about the 60-40 final score.

Memphis State's big center, Lynn Enzweiler, naturally gave the Salukis some problems with rebounding and scoring. But the game was a battle of height, and Kathy "Stretch" Vondrasek had perhaps her best game of the season, scoring 15 points to lead the team in point totals. The game didn't start out looking too good, though, as Vondrasek committed three fouls in the first eight minutes of play.

The Salukis also turned over the ball nine times in the first half on close walking calls by the referees.

Memphis State's confidence was easy to read in the smirky grin of Enzweiler's expression. But confidence may be what it's all about, as Memphis State went on to win the tourney championship Saturday from Illinois State 80-73.

Saturday morning, the Salukis met Central Michigan, who lost to Illinois State Friday, 71-62, for the consolation title.

"We moved the ball well and our defense was terrific, but we just couldn't get the ball through the hoop," West said. "We kept them to 10 points in five minutes and then couldn't score ourselves. It was a most distressing feeling."

The Salukis' field goal percentage for the game was only 18 per cent.

Pam Berryhill led the Salukis in scoring against Central Michigan with 16 points, which accounted for nearly half of the final 44-34 score.

The Saluki women's second team played Sunday against an Amateur Athletic Union team and won easily, 53-23. Denise Kelly and Donna Maas led the scoring for the Salukis with 17 and 14 points, respectively.

Looking to the next four regularly scheduled games in anticipating the state tournament, West said she now has some women on the second team who may be moving up to the first team.

Tuesday night will be the Saluki's last home game against Murray State at 4 and 6 p.m. in Davies Gym. Last week at Murray, the Salukis were defeated 57-40. Tuesday they will have a chance to vindicate themselves.

Northern Illinois fifth straight victim

Not par, but gymnasts halt Huskies

By Ron Sutton
Daily Egyptian Sports Editor

Chalk up one more for the old adage, "A team is only as good as its competition."

For the second straight time, the Saluki gymnasts proved that point Saturday night while coasting to an easy 215.25-197.60 win over Northern Illinois at the SIU Arena.

The hosts fell short of their 217-plus high water mark of last weekend, as they had against Illinois State Monday, primarily because they were not pushed.

"I'm not happy with our 215, although some of it is of my own making," SIU coach Bill Meade remarked. "I got mad at our parallel bars performance and Ivick's vaulting, so I said, 'We won't go for the score, I'm giving some of the other guys some experience.'"

"I figure I cost us a point screwing around," he said, "and they cost us a couple of points screwing around."

Meade's part of the blame resulted from extensive experimenting with new routines, since the Salukis figured to have an easy win on ice. The Huskies carried just a 4-5 dual mark into the meet after falling to powerful Indiana State Friday night, 216-plus-to-205.60, while SIU stood at 4-2 with four straight wins.

Saluki star Jim Ivick was late getting rolling as he failed to win an event until the high bars. He followed a 9.4 on that apparatus with a winning 9.4 on the high bars to top the all-around title with a 54.25 total.

Senior Jim McPaul actually was the brightest spot for the hosts, roaring back from a bout with appendicitis last weekend. The Saluki specialist won both events he competed in, floor exercise and vaulting, with a 9.35 and 9.05, respectively.

McPaul's opening performance boosted the team into a slim .60 lead, before the Dogs blew the meet open in the pommel horse. Tony Hanson's 9.25 led a five-man sweep of the event, a sweep resulting more from NNU's deficiencies than anything else.

The Salukis outscored the Huskies 36.15-26.95, and the meet's outcome was already settled.

"After the floor exercise and the sidehorse, we were in pretty good shape," Meade said. "Our rings were okay (Ivick second, Jack Laurie tie for third), then it went downhill."

"We could expect the troubles Ivick had doing his new vault for the first time (8.25)," he added, "but a couple of blows on the parallel bars hurt."

"I was pleased with McPaul's performance, though. He looked good on the floor exercise and did well on his vault."

The Salukis now hit the road for a Friday night meet at the University of Colorado. They won't see another home meet until Feb. 22, when the Sycamores of Indiana State roll in.

Cyclones tilt grapplers

By Dave Wiczorek
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

Cyclones hit the Carbondale campus Friday night and did just about as much damage as one could expect. The Saluki wrestlers found themselves in bad weather most of the night losing to Iowa State 22-9.

Out of the 10 weight classes, SIU could salvage but three victories, those by Clyde Ruffin, 142, Jim Horvath, 158 and Mark Weisen, 177.

"From the standpoint of basic technique, we didn't do that much different," Saluki coach Linn Long remarked, explaining the team's first loss in 11 games. "But we have been having erroneous technique all season. It's like the percentages in anything—they can catch up with you and they caught up with us against Iowa State."

He added, "The percentages caught up with us because Iowa State is a good physical team."

"Those guys executed good and wrestled well," Long said, concerning the performances of Ruffin, Horvath and Weisen.

"It's a funny thing. When they did make a mistake in execution, it was at times when it couldn't be taken advantage of."

Ruffin scored a 5-3 decision over Cyclone Don Zimmerman to boost his record to 15-5-1. The 142-pounder scored an early takedown, but spent the entire second period underneath Zimmerman although no points were awarded. Ruffin came back at the 2:38 mark of the third period to score a near fall which proved to be the margin of victory.

Horvath had fewer problems with his opponent in the 158 class, building a 3-1 lead in the first two periods and then wasting away the remaining time.

Although the team winning string was broken, Horvath kept his streak alive along with Weisen in the 177 weight class. Weisen polished off Larry Miller, 7-4. The Saluki struck first, stacking up a 4-1 margin, before Miller fought back to knot the score at 4-4 with 1:34 remaining in the match. Twenty-four seconds later, Weisen scored a reversal, good enough for the win.

"This loss hurt the kids real bad," Long remarked dismally. "They wanted to beat Iowa State. We have to look at this as just another dual meet, though, and forget about the loss."

This is how the rest of the Salukis fared: 118, Mike Pickover (SIU) decided by Don Finnegan, 4-2; 126, Dennis Lewis (SIU) decided by Bob Antonacci, 9-1; Dale Egger 134, (SIU) decided by Randy Nielsen, 6-2; 150, Fred Hoef (SIU) decided by Pete Galea; 167, Jav Friedrich (SIU) decided by Don Peterson 6-0; 190, Tim Swoboda (SIU) decided by Al Nacin, and heavyweight, Ken Karwowski (SIU) decided by Rob Whisman, 13-2.

Gymnasts defeated

By Martha Sanford
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

The advanced women gymnasts were unsuccessful in their attempt to bring home a victory from Champaign this weekend, losing to the U of I 81.84-78.51.

The individual competition, Sue Von Baerle tied for first in vaulting with a score of 7.57, followed by Nancy Barkman and Lori Smith in second and third.

Von Baerle and Barkman also placed second and third on the bars, and Larae Wagener placed third on the beam. No one from SIU placed in the first three places for floor exercise.

In all around competition, Smith placed second and Von Baerle placed third for SIU.

"The girls have improved a lot since their last meet," said head coach Mary Lyon. "We're looking forward to this weekend's Southern Sectionals."

The Southern Sectionals will be a one-night competition held at Western Illinois at Macomb. The five Illinois teams that will be competing are Southern Illinois State, Western, Eastern and the University of Illinois.

The elite gymnasts scheduled meet with Indiana State was forfeited by the Indiana team. SIU's elite gymnasts are rated as one of the top teams in the nation, but as yet this year, they haven't had much chance to live up to their ratings. They won their first meet against Grandview College and South Dakota, but their second meet against Southeast Missouri State was cancelled due to the weather and has not yet been rescheduled.

Their third scheduled meet was forfeited by Indiana State.

Did You Know

By Steve Shafer

Here's a basketball oddity. There was one season in the National Basketball Association when, oddly enough, only three teams in the whole league were able to win more games than they lost!... In the 1966-67 season only Boston, Golden State and Philadelphia finished above .500!

Here's an amazing fact. Did you know that the Montreal Canadiens have missed making the playoffs in the National Hockey League only five times in the LAST 50 YEARS! The only times the Canadiens failed to make the playoffs since 1924 have been 1926, '36, '40, '48 and '70.

Oddly enough, although the National Basketball Association has for years featured so many super-tall players—the man who helped organize the league and was its first commissioner, Maurice Podoloff, stood only 5'3!"

Cagers deal Titans loss

By Ron Sutton
Daily Egyptian Sports Editor

'Twas the same old story, and the biggest SIU crowd ever saw it. Balanced scoring, led by Joe C. Meriweather and Mike Glenn...superb passing by Perry Hines...and a devastating team defense.

The traits which have dominated most of the SIU homestand helped the Salukis dominate their fourth straight game Saturday night, a 77-61 revenge thrashing of Oral Roberts.

An overflow crowd of 10,057 fans viewed the first SIU win in the Titan series which now totals three games, a win which avenged the last Saluki loss Jan. 27, a 76-69 one.

"They are a fine ballclub," Titan coach Jerry Hale praised. "Paul (Lambert, SIU Coach) has done a good job with them, especially in the last three weeks. They're playing much better as a team." It hadn't taken long to convince him. The final score was nowhere near as lopsided as the game viewed by the raucous banner-parading fans was. The Salukis blasted away to a 34-13 lead in the first 13 minutes, and the Titans spent the rest of the night trying to make the score respectable.

From a 43-26 halftime advantage, the gap widened slowly to 66-42. After a Titan bucket, a good night for the Salukis was assured when Meriweather returned to the lineup after leaving earlier with an apparently badly sprained ankle, and the Salukis seemed content to play out the string.

"We showed a great deal of consistency," Lambert lauded after the game. "We shut down their running game for the most part. It was a very outstanding win over a very great team."

The Oral Roberts running game was indeed shut off—as never before in the school's nine-year history. The Titans' point total was their second lowest ever—and the worst one was 59 against a slowdown-minded Idaho State team earlier this year. The Titans won that game, anyway.

"Perry (Hines) played great defensively again," Lambert remarked. "I'd have to point out Tim Ricci, too. He was on (Anthony) Roberts most of the time, and held him to 18 points, which is probably his lowest of the year."

Hale cited another perspective which has long been a generally accepted one.

"I think the backbone of their defense is Meriweather under the basket," he remarked. "Take him away from rejecting everything under there, and it would change things."

The Saluki center was "rejecting" with frequent success Saturday night—perhaps half-a-dozen times—but it was his second straight game of opening minutes scoring which set the pace.

Meriweather, who bunched 15 points into the first 11 minutes against Stetson, popped in 16 in the open 13 minutes Saturday night. He had 12 in just over nine minutes, when the Salukis sped away to a 24-7 margin to coast the rest of the way.

Meriweather and Glenn led four Salukis in double figures, scoring 26 and 20 points, respectively. Hines' 10 assists figured largely in those totals, but the two's shooting accuracy was a bigger key. Meriweather hit 12 of 13 fielders inside, while Glenn was playing Mr. Outside with a 10-for-13 performance.

Besides Roberts' 18, the Titans were led by Willis Collins and reserve Duane Fox, who contributed 12 each. "The thing that makes Southern so tough," Hale said, "is that, besides having a man with the talents of Meriweather, they have a good supporting cast. They probably shoot 18-to-30 footers as well as any team in the country—for Glenn, maybe even halfcourt shots.

"I enjoy watching Glenn," Hale added. "I think probably, overall, that he is about as unselfish a young man at the guard position as I've ever seen. If he were on a ballclub where he was shooting 30 times a game, he would average 27, 28 or 30 points a game."

Swimmers win

SIU's women swimming team led from the outset Saturday morning as it won a triangular meet against Central Michigan and Principia at Pulliam Pool.

The Salukis opened with a win in the 200-medley relay, using two substitutes, and rolled on to an 89-73-64 triumph.

Salukis Candy Miller, Diane Friedman and Mindy McCurdy turned in national qualifying performances. Liz won the 50-backstroke in :30.5, one second under qualifying time, while Friedman qualified in the 50- and 100-breaststroke and McCurdy followed suit in the 50-butterfly.

Liz Stevens of Principia qualified in the 400-freestyle, in which SIU's Kathy Abel improved 10 seconds off her best effort.

Abrams, Joe C. steamroll Detroit

By Ron Sutton
Daily Egyptian Sports Editor

SIU "unCorked" a new offensive weapon Tuesday night at the arena, and Detroit had no defense against it.

The weapon—sophomore Corky Abrams—had fired away in public very little until recent weeks. Apparently, the Titans didn't have a scout around on those occasions.

Abrams found himself free to ramble—and drive—against an otherwise physical Detroit defense, and canned a career-high 24 points as SIU ripped the visitors, 95-62. He didn't miss a shot until a tip ran astray with just 9½ minutes left in the game.

By that time, the usual Saluki weapons were firing away. Center Joe C. Meriweather ended up putting that errant tip back in the bucket enroute to a 15-point second half and a 21-point game, the Salukis were up by 17, and it was all over but the shouting.

"Southern is well coached and has super players," Titan coach Dick Vitale praised after the game. "They are one of the best shooting teams in the country."

"They are better than Marquette," he said. "Some of the teams they put in the nationals last year shouldn't have been there ahead of Southern. There's no way this team shouldn't be in the top 15 in the country."

The Titans, who were scorched 95-52 in the season finale at the Arena last season, actually stayed within firing range until the final eight minutes of this contest. Then the seemingly inevitable runaway took place.

Mike Glenn pumped in an 18-foot jumper and Meriweather stuck in Abrams only other misfire for a 73-54 lead. John Long, Detroit's scoring leader on the night with 18 points, scored from underneath, but then the Salukis reeled off 10 unanswered points.

Abrams hit his final two points after a feed from Perry Hines, and Meriweather sank a pair of free throws. Glenn bombed in a 25-footer. Hines sank two free throws, and Meriweather scored underneath, and the victory was finally sealed at 83-56.

"The 2-3 zone gave us a little trouble the first half," Saluki coach Paul Lambert remarked. "They were giving us the gap the way they were playing, and Abrams was taking it to the hole."

"He was reading the defense really well, and he knew how they were playing Joe," Lambert praised. "I thought Corky and Joe played extremely well together."

That wasn't the entire offensive attack, though. The Saluki balance resulted in five men in double figures and an overall 58.9 shooting accuracy. Behind Abrams and Meriweather were Hines with 15, Shag Nixon with 14 and Glenn with 12.

Meriweather fought a one-man battle under the boards in a continuous bump-and-run game with the Titan big men. He garnered 15 rebounds, the only man with double figures rebounding, but Detroit won the overall battle, 46-40.

The Salukis appeared capable of blowing the game open in the first half, but lacked the zip they possessed in their recent outings.

Three times the margin reached 13 points, the last time at 41-28, but Lambert substituted freely in the closing minutes and the lead settled at 46-38 at intermission.

Abrams and Hines led a fantastic shooting display, scoring 15 and 10, respectively. Abrams hit seven of seven from the field, where the Dogs were 22 of 35 for a sizzling 63 per cent.

The victory, SIU's fifth straight and 12th straight at home over two seasons, drew 6,062 fans.

The Salukis will shoot for a sweep of their six-game homestand Thursday night when the St. Louis Billikens come to town. In a mid-January clash in St. Louis, the Dogs rolled, 77-73.

Game time is 7:35 p.m. Tickets are on sale at the Arena Ticket Office.

Interference call on Carmody fatal

Judge's ruling gives Illini track victory

By Dave Wiecek
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

The 1975 Illinois Intercollegiate Track Championships. They will probably go down in history as one of Southern's greatest losses and one not to be forgotten for years to come.

"I feel very bad about this loss," a disheartened Lew Hartzog said in his office Monday morning. "The effect it had on the team? It broke their hearts. They took it like gentlemen, though. They didn't fight about it or anything. I couldn't be prouder of a team."

The loss was especially hard to take because SIU had apparently won the meet after winning the final event of the day, the mile relay, in meet-record time. The relay victory gave SIU the points to edge Illinois for the championship.

However, on a judge's ruling, the Salukis were disqualified from the mile relay because of a running infraction. This gave Northwestern first place in the event and Illinois second, giving the Illini the necessary points to win the meet.

SIU was quite upset with the ruling, and Hartzog explained what happened from his point of view.

"Wayne Carmody was running the second leg of the race and was on his last lap and second-to-last turn when he passed up the Illinois man," Hartzog began to explain. "I was standing close to (Mike) Durkin and, when Carmody passed the Illinois guy, Durkin went running over to the official on the curve yelling, 'Southern interferred with Illinois.'"

When an infraction is cited on the track by an official, a red flag is waved, but Hartzog said the official was right on the curve and did not raise his flag.

"He didn't even raise the flag when Durkin went over to him," Hartzog said. "The official went over to the scorer's desk and then ruled that Carmody interfered with the Illinois man and disqualified our team."

As a result of the decision, SIU finished 7½ points behind Illinois, good for second place in the meet.

"Don Pierson of the Chicago Tribune probably put it best when he said, 'What a disappointing way to end the most exciting meet I have ever seen,'" Hartzog said.

The meet was not a complete loss from the spectators' standpoint, as they witnessed the setting of 12 records (13 if SIU's mile relay time had counted). The Salukis led the way with five meet records.

Senior Lonnie Brown was the main workhorse, collecting over 30 points while competing in 11 events over the two-day meet.

"Brown took the loss especially hard," Hartzog said. "He had never been on an indoor team that lost to Illinois and he didn't want to lose this time."

Brown set a meet record in the long jump, soaring 25-feet-1½-inches. Bill Hancock finished second with a leap of 24-feet-8½-inches. All together, SIU had five men that jumped over 23-feet in the long jump. Brown also picked up several second and third place finishes.

Hancock continued his record breaking ways by high jumping seven feet. He also competed in the pole vault for the first time this year and came up with a more than respectable 15-foot effort. Freshman Gary Hunter won the event with a record 15-foot 3¼-inches vault.

Saluki Mike Monroe broke Ivory Crockett's old record in the 300-yard run, speeding to the finish line in :30.5, and Phil Robins broke the record in the triple jump, pushing off to a 53-feet-6-inch jump.

The other first place finish for SIU was in the two-mile relay. The combination of Gary Mandehr, Bob Koenegstein, Leo Trzesniak and Pat Cook edged Loyola with a time of 7:43.9.

Looking back over the whole weekend, Hartzog commented, "I've never been prouder of these kids—the way they performed and handled themselves these two days—they're going to go places. I can't ask any more of them."
